

Platinum Health donated mattresses, stress balls, toothbrushes, toothpaste, and brushing charts to Rehlahleng Special School.

Platinum Health's Chief Executive Officer (CEO), Mr Rodney Gounden, Dr Matome Sekgala (Chief Operating Officer – Eastern Limb), together with a delegation from PHMS, visited Rehlahleng Special School on 18 July to donate much-needed items to the school.

Underlining the importance of preserving the legacy of Madiba, Mr Rodney Gounden reiterated that Mandela Day came about as a day to recognise Madiba. "It serves as a call to action for each and every one of us. It is a day that urges us to reflect on our actions, promote peace, equality, and justice and to strive towards a society free from discrimination and oppression. This day is not just about remembering Madiba's achievements, it is about honouring his values and principles!"

Mr Gounden also recognised that education was the key to unlocking the potential of individuals and empowering them to create a better future. In honour of this belief Mandela Day encourages people to dedicate their time to educational initiatives, supporting schools and helping to provide equal access to education, for all. "This Mandela Day we identified the Rehlahleng Special School as a school that's part of the community that we serve and for which we wanted to do something special for on this day. We are thankful for what the school does for its learners in empowering them to improve themselves. We hope that our contributions today will assist you to be better and help your learners," he said.

Judging by the smiles on their faces, the children from Rehlahleng Special School were overjoyed with their gifts.
